

How to Guest Post for Away with Words: A Guide to getting started in Tech Writing

Last Modified on 06/28/2024 1:16 pm EDT

Away with Words is an independent micro-agency for technical content writers.

As the founder, I try to discover hidden talents lurking in industries in the technical and engineering space. My aim is to nurture their gifts through consulting work.

I join forces with many kinds of developers, founders, scientists, artists, engineers, and other creators.

Together, we build sustainable solutions to the world's most pressing problems.

Work with me

As a tech boffin and nerd girl, I specialize in creating community content focusing on SaaS, customer support, and Artificial Intelligence.

My content isn't simply noise to fill the void online, but words, images and sounds to add value to the conversation of the global hive mind.

Together, we could create:

- Blog content
- Listicles
- Podcast episodes
- Graphics
- Blog strategies
- Website copy
- Landing pages
- Newsletters

You name it -- I'll certainly give it a go.

You may have read or seen some of my work.

You may have not.

It really doesn't matter whether you want to hire me as a freelancer, or work with me as a trusted partner. You can even employ me on a retainer as a marketing consultant for your business.

Get in touch

If you want to get in touch, simply email catherine@awaywithwords.co.

If LinkedIn is more your thing, and you want to check out my credentials, head here and search:

>> <https://www.linkedin.com/feed/>

You'll find me if you go down the #WriteTheDocs rabbit hole.

In the meantime, see you in the technical writing AI dreamscape...

